YIDDISH GLOSSARY

Bubby or Bubbe: A Jewish grandmother, or simply someone you love or adore...Who's your Bubby?

Ashkenazi Jews: Refers to a specific group of Jewish people that eventually settled in Eastern Europe and Russia. New York delicatessen fare is typically Ashkenazi food.

Blintz: A thin pancake similar to a crepe, usually stuffed with fruit and/or a sweet cheese filling

Challah: A classic Jewish egg bread traditionally eaten on Sabbath and other holidays.

Chutzpah: Guts, courage, nerve, audacity. "He had the chutzpah to ask for mayonnaise on his pastrami sandwich."

Egg Cream: A classic New York deli beverage consisting of milk, soda water and a flavored syrup. No eggs.

Fress: To eat a lot, especially with enthusiasm. "He's quite the fresser!"

Gefilte Fish: A poached mixture of ground carp, pike or whitefish. It is typically eaten as an appetizer with horseradish.

Knish: A Jewish hand held snack food consisting of a filling covered with dough then fried or baked.

Kugel: A baked Jewish pudding or casserole commonly made from egg noodles or potatoes, either sweet or savory.

Kvetch: To complain habitually, or gripe. It's what we do!

Latke: A fried pancake that is made from grated potatoes, eggs, onion and flour or matzo meal.

Lox: Salmon fillet that has been cured by brining only, not smoked.

Matzo: Unleavened bread traditionally eaten by Jews during Passover, with a cracker-like consistency.

Matzo Ball: A dumpling made from matzo, eggs, water, and schmaltz...traditionally served in chicken soup.

Mazel Tov: Congratulations! "Mazel Tov on your wedding." or "Mazel Tov on your daughter's graduation."

Mensch: A decent human being; a virtuous person, one with honesty and integrity. "What a good boy, such a mensch!"

Nosh: A snack, or the act of snacking or eating; nibbling. To nosh is to eat a little bit.

Nova or Nova Lox: Salmon that has been cured and then lightly smoked.

Oy Vey: Interjection of grief, pain or horror. Something one says when frustrated. We say this a lot!

Rugelach: A Jewish pastry much like a strudel, however, it's cut into bite-sized pieces before being baked.

Schmaltz: Rendered chicken or goose fat used in cooking Ashkenazi cuisine.

Schmear: A spread of any kind but mostly referring to the act of applying cream cheese to a bagel.

Schmooze: To converse informally, to small talk or chat. "C'mon into the deli and we can schmooze for a while."

Sheygetz: Male form of Shiksa

Shiksa: A non-Jewish girl or woman, especially one who has attracted a Jewish man.

Yenta: A Yiddish female name used generically for an old gossip. "Can you believe what a Yenta she is?"

Yiddish: The pre-holocaust language of central and Eastern European Jews derived from a mix of German, Hebrew, and other Slavic languages. It has heavily influenced American English and has become the perfect language for insults.
